Nixon Asks Missile Pact Approval

NIXON PARTY ARRIVES AT CAPITOL
(UPI TELEPHOTO)

WASHINGTON (AP) — Reporting that the Moscow summit laid the foundation for a new U.S.-Soviet relationship, President Nixon has quickly asked Congress for approval of the landmark superpower missile pact "to check the wasteful and dangerous spiral of nuclear arms."

Nixon's plea to a half-filled joint session of Congress Thursday night—where he hurried straightaway upon his return to Andrews Air Force Base—won wide praise but enough criticism to show the SALT accords will face some stiff debate.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, a Democratic presidential contender, said Nixon had confessed to a growing Soviet momentum in missile. Rep. John M. Ashbrook, a Republican presidential hopeful, said the strategic-arms agreements would allow the Soviets a big advantage.

But Sen. Robert P. Griffin of Michigan, the assistant Senate GOP leader, reflected what appeared to be more widespread, favorable reaction in saying:

"The President presented Congress with a challenge to build on a solid foundation he has prepared. Surely, the first order of business for Congress should be to indicate support by ratifying the accords reached at Moscow."

Nixon called congressional leaders to the White House today before heading for a Florida vacation. The SALT treaty on limiting defensive antiballistic missiles—ABMs—requires a two-thirds Senate vote, while the accompanying executive agreement curbing offensive missiles can pass with a majority in the Senate and House.

Only 48 of 100 senators and fewer than 200 of the 433 House members showed up to hear Nixon as the President, upon returning from his 13-day journey, transferred directly from his jetliner to a helicopter and hopped to Capitol Hill.

"The foundation has been laid for a new relationship between the two most powerful nations on earth," Nixon reported to the unusual joint session in his nationally broadcast, half-hour address.

"Now it is up to us—to all of us here in this chamber and to all of us across America—to join with other nations in building a new house upon that foundation—one that can be a home for the hopes of mankind and a shelter against the storms of conflict."

Referring to his Peking trip in February as well as his meeting with Soviet leaders, Nixon declared "the summits of 1972" are "part of a great national journey for peace."

While deep philosophical differences persist and the threat of war has been reduced but not eliminated, he said, historians will record 1972 as "the year when America helped to lead the world up out of the lowlands of constant war, and onto the high plateau of lasting peace."

Nixon recited the range of agreements on space cooperation, joint medical efforts and other accords announced at Moscow and predicted the new U.S.-Soviet Joint Commercial Commission will reach a comprehensive trade agreement later this year.

"And most important," he said, "there is the treaty and related executive agreement which will limit, for the first time, both offensive and defensive strategic nuclear weapons in the arsenals of the United States and the U.S.S.R."

Mustering arguments against conservative critics of the missiles accords, Nixon continued: "Three-fifths of all the people alive in the world today have spent their whole lifetimes under the shadow of nuclear war which could be touched off by the arms race among the great powers . . .

"With this step we have enhanced the security of both nations. We have begun to check the wasteful and dangerous spiral of nuclear arms which has dominated relations between our two countries for a generation."

"No power on earth is stronger than the United States of America today," he said. "None will be stronger than the United States of America in the future."

Critics say the ABM treaty, which limits the United States and the Soviet Union to two ABM sites each, and the offensive-missiles agreement, which imposes ceilings on numbers of long-range rockets at existing levels, will hand the Soviets a wide and unbeatable missile margin.

Report on Summit... Cheers and Dissent

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's report to Congress on the U.S.-Soviet arms accord drew enthusiastic cheers, condemnation from several Democrats who saw it as a campaign speech and general agreement that the Moscow accords will win legislative approval.

A booming "Yea," primarily from the Republican side of the House chamber, greeted the President as he arrived to report to a joint session of Congress Thursday night.

In the halls afterward, Republicans and many Democrats said the President had made a balanced appeal for congressional approval of the two arms-limitation agreements.

Other Democrats expressed disappointment in harsh terms. "He had good prime time to talk to the American public with an eye on the November elections," said House Democratic Whip Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. of Massachusetts. "And he didn't tell us a thing we didn't already know."

Democratic presidential contender Sen. George McGovern, campaigning in California, said the absence of all but a passing reference to Vietnam was a "painful weakness" in the address. He pledged support for the agreements, however.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., heading up Democratic platform hearings in Pittsburgh, also noted that Vietnam was barely touched on. Until the war is resolved, he said, "We have not fully achieved our goals for real peace in the world."

Republican Rep. John Ashbrook, seeking his party's presidential nomination, accused Nixon of keeping parts of the agreement secret. Detailing comparisons of Soviet and American weapons capabilities growing from the agreements, Ashbrook said the Soviets "could deploy significantly more weapons than we could."

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., who earlier had complained the Moscow agreements "give the Soviets more of everything," called Nixon's nationally broadcast report "a clever campaign speech on foreign policy, full of platitudes and generalities signifying nothing."

Leaders in both the House and Senate predicted Congress will approve the strategic-arms-limitation talks — SALT — agreements but set no timetable pending more information.

"We'll wait to see the details," said House Foreign Affairs Chairman Thomas E. Morgan, D-Pa., "especially what we gave up on the SALT agreements."

Senate Foreign Relations Committee Chairman J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., refused comment on the President's report.

So did Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield.

But Senate Armed Services Committee Chairman John C. Stennis, D-Miss., praised the President for making a "good presentation of what he has done." He said the arms agreements stand "a good chance for approval by the Congress."

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. warplanes smashed North Vietnam's second biggest power plant with electronically guided bombs and bombed a major railroad bridge on the line to China, military spokesmen said today.

Navy pilots in 220 raids Thursday also destroyed two 450-foot supply ships about one mile off the North Vietnamese coast. Many of the raids were night strikes, the U.S. command said.

In South Vietnam, heavy monsoon weather blanketed three-quarters of the country and cut U.S. air strikes to the lowest level in seven weeks. Intelligence sources said Communist troops were being resupplied for a possible major drive in the far northern quarter.

U.S. fighter pilots have scored better than 8 to 1 on enemy jets. Story Page 24.

Only scattered contacts were reported today along the northern defense line 20 miles above the old imperial capital of Hue, 400 miles north of Saigon, but heavy fighting continued in and around the Central Highlands province capital of Kontum, 260 miles north of Saigon.

A U.S. Army UH1 helicopter was shot down today south of Kontum, killing one American and wounding four others aboard, spokesmen said. The spokesmen also said an Air Force F4 Phantom jet fighter-bomber that crashed Thursday in Thailand had been hit by a surface-to-air (SAM) missile over North Vietnam. The two-man crew parachuted and was rescued uninjured.

Striking with 2,000-pound "Smart" bombs, Phantom crews heavily damaged the thermal power plant at Bac Giang, 25 miles northeast of Hanoi. The U.S. command described the plant as "a major source of electrical power to war-related industries in the area."

Other Thailand-based Phantoms wiped out the two center spans of the five-span Cap Nung railroad bridge 52 miles northeast of Hanoi and 30 miles from the China border, spokesmen said. The bridge is a major link in Hanoi's rail system.

Carrier-based Navy pilots spotted the two big supply boats near Hon Nui Son Island about 180 miles north of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ). Military sources said the ships were carrying stockpiled supplies from the island to the port of Thanh Hoa, 28 miles to the north.

The Hon Nui Son sector has not been mined by the United States but U.S. 7th Fleet vessels keep it under constant surveillance.

The U.S. command said U.S. fighterbombers flew 219 strikes inside South Vietnam in the 24 hours ending at dawn today, the fewest since April 13. The poor weather by late afternoon today had socked in the Quang Tri-Thua Thien province border region.

Kingston High Students Prepare 'Rights' Suit

KINGSTON A group of students from Kingston High School plan to file suit against the principal, superintendent of schools and Board of Education for what they term a "violation" of their constitutional rights of free speech.

The students maintain that they were illegally prohibited from handing out campaign literature in the high school during the recent Board of Education elections.

Louis A. Salzmann, superintendent of schools, and Thomas W. Reynolds, president of the Board of Education, indicated at Thursday's board meeting that they are willing to let the matter be settled in the courts.

Instituting the action are Pat Ljitic and Paula Bojarsky, students at Kingston High School, and members of an unofficial "leafleting committee" at the high school. Both attended Thursday's board meeting and, along with Lee Eric Yaple, another student, asked the board to revise the policy that prohibits students from distributing politically oriented literature.

The controversy first arose in April when students were reportedly told by high school Principal Dan Allen that they could not distribute campaign literature for Ward Todd, a candidate for the Board of Education, who has subsequently elected in May.

New narcotics treatment program for school-age addicts planned in Kingston Consolidated School District. Story on page 3.

Several students then met with Salzmann and he affirmed Allen's ruling, basing his opinion on an established Board of Education policy.

Steve Lipton, an attorney for the American Civil Liberties Union in Poughkeepsie, was then contacted, and he reportedly advised the students that there are several precedents that would justify a court action.

At Thursday's Board meeting, Thomas Reynolds said "There is no indication at this time that the policy will be changed by the Board of Education . . . We have responsibility for the students under our care and we must control any intrusions that are not of an educational nature." He added that the school board's attorney (Joseph Hill) "Has advised us that we are within our rights." Reynolds said "It may not be true" that the policy violates the First Amendment of the Constitution.

Following the meeting, Reynolds told the students, "Our attorney has received some additional cases that might have a bearing on this case . . . The Board believes its policy is correct, but if the board members found that they were violating your constitutional rights, they would be the first to change the policy to conform to the law. But a difference of opinion is something else."

Yaple told The Freeman following the meeting that the students would prefer not to bring the matter to court. "All we want is the right to distribute leaflets in the school," he said.

The policy the students want revised reads: "Students and faculty of the schools are to be protected from intrusions on their time by announcements, posters, bulletins and communications of any kind from individuals and organizations not directly connected with the schools. The Superintendent of Schools and the principals are urged to interpret this policy strictly. Exceptions may be made when, in their judgement, the best interests of the students will be served. In cases of differences of opinion, the decision of the Superintendent of Schools will be final."

No formal action has yet been filed in the matter. Attorneys for both sides are reported to be discussing the issue privately.

The remainder of Thursday's board meeting proceeded quickly, with several personnel and bid resolutions gaining passage with little discussion.

The board awarded a number of bids, including: Otto Schmidt & Son, Inc., $9,481.12 for general instructional supplies; W.H. Smith Paper Co., $460.14 for paper supplies; Otto Schmidt & Son, Inc., $18,513.30 for paper supplies; Webster Paper and Supplies Co., $29,540.58 for art supplies.

Transportation contracts totaling $156,850 were awarded.

The board approved a resolution submitted by Milton Reynolds renaming School No. 8 the Sojourner Truth School. The name change was initiated at the request of the Parents Club of School No. 8. Other names considered were Peter Stuyvesant School and New Amsterdam School.

Rocky Signs Bill Authorizing Second Newburgh-Beacon Bridge

Gov. Rockefeller Thursday signed into law a bill authorizing construction of a second Hudson River bridge linking the cities of Newburgh and Beacon.

Each bridge will handle one-way traffic. Since the new span will handle westerly traffic, a punishable by up to a year in jail if no fatality occurred, and because it will be classified as one to five years if a death did occur, the federal government will pay for 90 per cent of its construction.

Beacon mayor Robert Cahill himself to the victim and to a police officer. "A measure strengthening the obligations of motorists who may even accidentally cause injury to others has been long overdue," Rockefeller said. "If this measure stated the obligation to be imposed with adequate precision, I would be pleased to approve it."

Meanwhile, United Press International reports a "hit and run" bill that apparently the opening of Interstate Route 84, the 10-year-old Newburgh-Beacon Bridge cannot handle the increased traffic with the intention of the flow of traffic. The prospect that Stewart Field will even be developed into a major airport terminal also prompted Thursday on the ground that the lawmakers to approve construction of another bridge.

The new bridge is expected to be located within a short distance of the existing span, personal injury to render apparently necessary or if the victim so requests, or the making of arrangements for such transportation, but that language does not purport to be an exhaustive definition and it is not clear what else would be required.

Rockefeller noted that the bill was also faulty because it "might exacerbate accident injuries by encouraging unknowledgeable individuals to attempt to treat victims or to move them when such movement would be inadvisable."

The governor has also signed bills that will:

—Allow New York City to borrow $100 million.

—Prohibit school buses, camp buses or charter buses to drive for more than 10 miles with standing passengers.

Bills vetoed by the governor included those that would have:

—Divided the state into three marketing zones for beer.

—Permitted voters in Buffalo to choose whether to elect a school board.

—Permitted tractors and double trailers to operate on highways outside of New York City and Long Island.

—Provided $1,500 in state funds for the state convention this year of the Veterans of World War I.

—Exempted Buffalo from the statewide requirement for an appointed, independent board of review for assessments.

—Required motorists in accidents to give "reasonable assistance" to victims.

Kingston Consolidated School District

New Drug Treatment Program Slated

By JON POWERS

KINGSTON The Ulster County Drug Commission and the Kingston City Schools Consolidated will combine energies and resources in the next year to conduct a new narcotics treatment program for school-age addicts.

Michael Wood, director of the Ulster County Drug Commission, outlined the program at Thursday's meeting of the Board of Education, and also had some complimentary words for the board's decision to continue to finance its Drug Decision Program.

Drug Decision was instituted in the Kingston Schools last year. It was designed strictly as an educational program to combat the spread of narcotics abuse.

But the new program proposed by the county commission is specifically designed for students who have a serious drug problem; but not a problem that is serious enough to warrant official classification as an addict and removal to residence center, such as Daytop or Project Renaissance. "There is a need," said Wood, "for someone to accept the treatment responsibility for kids who are deeply involved in drugs, but not ready for a residence program. We felt this was a critical area not previously trapped."

The Kingston school district, in the meantime, will continue with its own narcotics education program, even without state funds. Drug Decision, last year, received $37,500 from the state Narcotics Addiction Control Commission, and an equal amount was put up by the school district. State funds have been drastically cut this year, and each school district in Ulster County is expected to only receive equal $5,000 grants from the state.

Realizing the importance of Drug Decision, the Board of Education this year has decided to finance the entire program itself, and $62,600 has been budgeted for personnel services and materials.

"Narcotics is not considered (by the state) with the prime and expedient importance of past years," said Wood. He said 75 per cent of the state's drug funds will be used for treatment.

COME HOME TO FORD

There was a time in America when life was simpler.

Most cities were called "towns." Highways were called "roads." And when you talked about cars, you called them Fords.

It was the kind of car a country could live with and grow up with.

If it was easy to buy and simple to run, it was a Ford.

That was the original idea.

Well, we've come a long, long way down that road.

Along the way, a car became something more complicated than transportation.

Lots of people got caught up in bigness and status symbols.

Or carried away by foreign intrigue.

Maybe a new way of looking at life and buying things has done it. Maybe the rising cost of everything.

But now, America is coming home—to Ford.

To quietness. And easy care. And style shaped by good sense, not show.

Ford's Pintos and Mavericks and Torinos are beautiful machines, but they're also easy to run.

In fact, your Ford dealer has seven great cars that are.

It's the original idea, really—in its 1972 model.

You waited long enough. Come home to Ford.

Wholesale Prices Up, Unemployment Same

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Wholesale prices of farm products and other foods went up in May after two months of declines while unemployment continued at 5.9 per cent, the government reported today.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said the unemployment rate remained unchanged last month for the third consecutive month, but the number of persons with jobs continued upward and reached an all-time high of nearly 81.4 million.

The BLS said wholesale prices over-all increased 0.6 per cent in May compared with only 0.1 per cent in each of the two previous months. This was due mainly to a sharp 1.4 per cent jump in prices of farm products and processed foods and feeds, and a 1.3 per cent increase in consumer food prices.

After adjustment for seasonal factors, the increases were not as sharp —0.5 per cent for all wholesale prices, 0.8 per cent for farm products and processed foods and feeds, and 0.5 per cent for consumer foods.

May marked the fourth month out of the last six months in which prices of farm products and food in supermarkets had increased sharply.

On the job front, May was the 19th consecutive month that the unemployment rate had been 5.8 per cent or more of the civilian labor force, reaching as high as 6.1 per cent three times during that period.

In the wholesale price index, the more stable industrial commodity costs went up 0.3 per cent in May, compared with 0.4 per cent in April. Prices of nonfood consumer goods increased 0.2 per cent in May for the fifth consecutive month.

In the food category, sharp declines in March and April failed to offset steep increases in December, January and February.

Livestock prices shot up 4.5 per cent in May, egg prices went up 3.9 per cent, prices of fresh and dried fruits and vegetables increased 2.6 per cent, poultry prices advanced 2.3 per cent and processed meats, poultry and fish went up 2.6 per cent.

Kapreilian's Name

Sent to Governor

By HUGH REYNOLDS

The Ulster County Republican Committee has recommended the name of Harry Kapreilian to Gov. Rockefeller for appointment to the County Legislature in place of the late William F. Edelmuth.

Kapreilian, ran 10th in the 1971 city legislature elections but was the top vote-getter of those Republicans who were not elected. Eight men were elected. Kapreilian was endorsed at a special meeting of the Kingston Republican City Committee Monday night. Stanley J. Petro, who ran behind Kapreilian on the Republican ticket, was named as an alternate.

County Chairman Albert Spada sent Kapreilian's name to the governor on Tuesday. "We're hoping to hear from the governor, shortly," Spada told The Freeman today. Spada added that the State Bureau of Criminal Investigation runs a check on all would-be gubernatorial appointments, "just a routine thing," and that he expects that the governor "will go along with our recommendations."

Spada said he will be in Albany Saturday conferring with State Chairman Charles Lanigan on the appointment. Spada claimed today that "the law clearly states that a county office will be filled by the governor," basing his opinion on a "previous court decision." Spada did not have details on that decision today.

The Democrats, unlike the Republicans, have taken no definite action on filling the vacancy created by the death of Edelmuth, also a Democrat, last week. City Chairman Lawrence E. Woerner has suggested the name of William G. Davis and Orrie R. Riehl as possible replacements but said today that he has not had the opportunity to discuss the situation with Mayor Francis R. Koenig.

Davis finished ninth in the overall running with 5,160 votes while Riehl, Kingston city treasurer, finished 12th behind Petro with 4,719 votes.

Koenig has taken the position the office of legislator is a city office and as such, vacancies should be filled by the mayor. He said he received a legal opinion today from City Corporation Counsel Aaron E. Klein but has not had a chance to study it. Klein was unavailable for comment.

Edelmuth, a former three-term mayor of Kingston (1942-1947) was elected to the county legislature three times. He died on May 23 at the age of

Israeli Reprisal Seems Imminent

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS — Israeli jets swooped over southern Lebanon and troop movements were reported along the border Thursday night, heightening expectation of an attack in reprisal for the massacre at Tel Aviv international airport.

In Israel, fear of another terrorist attack sent extra troops and ambulances racing to the airport Thursday night, and passengers and all baggage on at least six incoming flights were searched thoroughly. Unofficial reports said the lone survivor of the three-man Japanese suicide mission told interrogators that another slaughter was planned.

There was no attack. In a midnight radio broadcast, Transport Minister Shimon Peres said "increased security measures have been put in force" and will continue.

Israeli Skyhawk and Mirage jets spent 15 minutes over southern Lebanon, and Palestinians in Beirut said attack on the area appeared inevitable. Some Lebanese, however, predicted the Israelis would hit neither guerrilla bases in the south, scene of many Israeli raids, nor the Beirut airport, where security has been tightened considerably.

"The Israelis must use the element of surprise," one observer said. "They will probably pick the least expected form of retaliation."

A main thoroughfare in Beirut and a refugee camp on the road to the airport were mentioned as possible targets. Women and children have been evacuated from some guerrilla camps.

The Israeli government blamed Lebanon for the attack charging that it harbored the guerrilla organization which hired the three Japanese terrorists, the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine. Lebanon's ambassador to the United Nations denied this, saying the Front had a press office only in Beirut.

Israel's U.N. ambassador, Yosef Tekoah, said that Egypt as well as Lebanon bore a special responsibility for the attack, in which 26 persons including two of the terrorists were killed and about 70 wounded.

"Egypt, as you know, has become the motive factor behind this terror warfare," Tekoah told newsmen at U.N. headquarters in New York.

The three Japanese arrived in Israel aboard an Air France flight, and their submachine guns and grenades escaped detection because they were in their checked luggage.

But as airports and airlines around the world tightened their checks on passengers and baggage, the Israeli airline El Al was embarrassed Thursday by the disclosure that a case of guns for the Irish Republican Army had traveled from New York to London in an El Al plane Tuesday and was discovered only because the case split open as it was being unloaded.

Housewives Push 'Peace Pledge'

BELFAST (UPI) — Roman Catholic housewives of Belfast and Londonderry stepped up their "peace pledge" drive today in an effort to pressure the Irish Republican Army's militant Provisional wing into declaring a cease-fire.

Organizers of the Belfast peace drive, in which Roman Catholics pledge rejection of violence as a means to remedy Ulster's problems, announced the signature-gathering will be extended to all the city's parishes and pledge books will stay open in churches for another two weeks.

They said 40,000 Roman Catholics—80 per cent of the adult Catholic population in the 12 parishes in which the drive has gone on the past two weeks—have signed.

"When all the signing is done no one will be able to dispute the wishes of the Roman Catholic community," said Tess Costello, one of the organizers. "The Provisional IRA will be well advised to heed this message."

The Provisionals so far have spurned the cease-fire declared this week by the IRA's Marxist-oriented Official wing. They have pressed their campaign of bombs and bullets, aimed at uniting mainly Protestant Northern Ireland with the Roman Catholic Irish Republic. Sniping and bombing attacks continued Thursday. Snipers blazed away at a police patrol in Coalisland, a British army check point near Newry and an army post in Londonderry's Roman Catholic Brandywell area. No casualties were reported.

A gunman lugged a bomb-laden duffel bag into a downtown Londonderry newspaper distributor's shop and shouted a warning that sent employees and customers fleeing. The blast demolished the shop and damaged adjoining stores.

Undeterred by the Provisionals' militant stand, housewives of Londonderry Roman Catholic districts pressed on with their own "peace pledge drive." They said they had gathered more than 4,000 signatures in two days of signing pledge books in parochial school halls of the Bogside and Creggan districts, which are IRA-controlled.

Oil Nationalization Could Cause Crisis

By RAYMOND WILKINSON

BEIRUT (UPI)—Nationalization of the Western-owned Iraq Petroleum Company (IPC) by Iraq and Syria could precipitate a world oil crisis, Western oil sources said today.

President Ahmed Hassan al-Bakr of Iraq announced the takeover of the company in his country Thursday night. A second decree issued shortly after the presidential announcement said the French-owned Compagnie Francaises des Petroles—which had a 23.75 per cent interest in IPC—might be allowed to continue operations subject to negotiation.

In addition to the French company, IPC was owned by British Petroleum, Royal Dutch Shell, Standard Oil of New Jersey and Mobil.

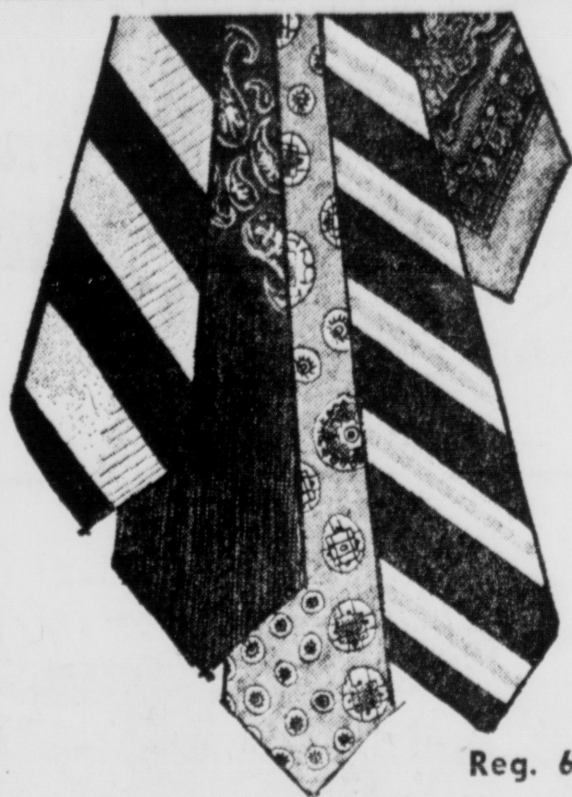

A few hours later, a statement by President Hafez Assad in neighboring Syria said his government seized the pipeline, property and installations of IPC in Syria.

The president's statement, read on Damascus Radio, said "Our rights have been restored to the people after years of foreign monopolistic control." The major IPC asset in Syria is the pipeline which pumps crude oil from the Iraqi fields to the Mediterranean Sea.

The oil sources said the Iraqi and Syrian actions could spark a showdown between the oil producing countries, grouped together in the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC), and the Western oil companies which drill in those nations.

Arms Limitation

It is probably a good thing that Congress was in recess and the holiday intervened after the signing of the two U.S.-Soviet pacts. Even the 10-day lapse before the convening of Congress will not stifle the cries of disapproval both from the right and the left. But the middle majority should come out on top after all the shouting is over.

The treaty signed by President Nixon and Soviet Party Communist Leader Leonid I. Brezhnev requires Senate confirmation and should get it, after the right calls it a giveaway and the left not enough. For the first time, it puts limits on the growth of American and Soviet strategic nuclear armaments. But it requires no disarmament. It establishes a ceiling of 200 launchers for each side's defensive missile systems and commits them not to try to build nationwide antimissile defenses.

This treaty runs indefinitely, but both sides pledged to abide by it at once. In addition, both Nixon and Brezhnev agreed to seek further limitations and in time some reduction in arms.

The interim accord they signed freezes land-based and submarine-based intercontinental missiles at the level now in operation or under construction. This pact does not require Senate confirmation. For that very reason, it will stir up considerable opposition. But the two leaders felt their nations are strategically equal, no matter how unequal they may be in quality and numbers. And both felt they were strong enough to withstand criticism at home.

What must be borne in mind is that while both powers can annihilate each other, they also can deter each other. And that because of this deterrent ability there have been no nuclear strikes since Hiroshima and Nagasaki in 1945.

Conventional arms are not affected. The arms race will go on. So will quality and refinements in nuclear weapons. But the first major step in nuclear limitation has been effected. It is a giant step, but only a first one. It sets the road for more curbs if this first one proves effective over the years.

Runaway Fathers

Runaway fathers can't escape their responsibility for paying child support simply by getting out. The Senate Finance Committee has lined up solidly with the abandoned mothers. Regardless of income, runaway fathers are to be tracked down and made to pay child support.

The committee would enlist the Department of Health, Education and Welfare to set up sophisticated blood-test laboratories throughout the country to help establish paternity in child-support cases.

Also, any woman, whether or welfare on not, would be permitted to use HEW and Internal Revenue Service payment-roll records on taxes and Social Security to locate a runaway husband so that he can be sued for child support or forced to comply with an existing child support order. Presently, HEW and IRS locators are available only to welfare mothers, and only to enforce compliance with existing court orders.

Finally, salaries of runaway fathers who work for the federal government would be subject to attachment of a wife seeking child support, regardless of whether she is on welfare or not.

The bill is about as strong and comprehensive as possible. It would make fathering children and running away from the responsibility financially hazardous, to say the least.

MICHELANGELO'S PIETA — The hammer blows that damaged Michelangelo's art treasure, "La Pieta" could have been wielded only by a deranged vandal. The statue, carved from a single block of white Carrara marble, is considered by many as the most inspired and exquisite sculpture the world has known.

WASHINGTON — The venerable, 84-year-old dean of the House, Rep. Emanuel Celler, D.N.Y., has become a bit careless about promoting his pocketbook interests in Congress.

For 30 years, he has shuffled papers and switched nameplates to separate his law practice from his congressional actions. But this hasn't prevented him apparently, from tending the cash register of a multi-million-dollar conglomerate on Capitol Hill.

The conglomerate, Fischbach and Moore, does electrical work for power plants, industrial facilities, office buildings and other installations. It has received government contracts for a variety of projects, ranging from the FBI's vast new headquarters in Washington to anti-ballistic missiles sites in North Dakota.

Repeatedly, Celler has put his power and prestige on the line in favor of projects that would benefit Fischbach and Moore. In promoting these projects, however, he hasn't mentioned that he has a financial stake in the company. He has served, off and on, as a director, and his law firm does legal work for the company.

There was a big brouhaha in the 1960s, for example, over Consolidated Edison's construction of a nuclear generating plant at Buchanan, N.Y., and a hydroelectric plant at Cornwall, N.Y. Celler rose to the defense of Con Ed.

Sacred Cow
"The Cornwall plant," he declared, "has been attacked as an invasion of the scenic beauty of the Hudson. . . I have grave doubts as to whether or not there will be an invasion of the beauty of the Hudson. Nor is scenic beauty a sacred cow to be worshipped at all and any cost."

As for those who opposed the nuclear plant, Celler snorted: "These are the same skeptics who, in the 15th century, warned Columbus not to set out on his voyage to India which finally led him to America. These are the same skeptics who, in 1888, said the Brooklyn Bridge would fall down. These are the same skeptics that denigrated Kitty Hawk and flying machines, and these are the same skeptics who scoff our efforts to reach the moon."

Celler omitted the fact that Con Ed had contracted with Fischbach and Moore to do the electrical work.

In 1969, Celler helped rally a close House vote in favor of the anti-ballistic missile system. "The gamble is too great, the awesome risk too much to bear" if the ABM system is not constructed, he told the House gravely.

He neglected to mention that his favorite conglomerate would help with the construction.

Celler and Lockheed
Again in 1971, Celler supported the controversial $250 million loan to Lockheed Corp. "I think Lockheed is worth saving!" he cried. He pointed out that "in my own state, there are suppliers on subcontracts involving over $67.5 million."

He discreetly didn't mention that Fischbach and Moore was one of the subcontractors.

Celler has voted for military construction that included electrical contracts from Fischbach and Moore. As House Judiciary Chairman, Celler also has jurisdiction over the FBI which, perhaps coincidentally, awarded Fischbach and Moore the electrical contract for the new J. Edgar Hoover building.

All the while, Celler has put on a great show of abstinence, in the name of ethics, from handling private law cases before the federal government. What he has done for ethics, however, is required by law. It happens to be a federal violation for Congressmen to take fees in federal cases.

The door to Celler's law layout displays two signs. One identifies the firm of Weisman, Celler, Allan, Spett and Sheinberg. The other omits Celler's name. All cases involving the government are assigned to the firm without his name.

A prospective client might have difficulty, however, in distinguishing between the two firms. Both have the same telephone number. Indeed, they share furniture and fixtures as well as phones. While they keep separate books and bank accounts, the same staff is used by both firms.

Footnote: The kindly Celler told us he had been guilty of no conflicts and would swear so "on a stack of Bibles." Our charges, he said were "contemptuously false." When we compared his past statements with the Fischbach and Moore contracts, he insisted that he had been unaware of any connection.

Washington Whirl

RUNNING MATES — Sen. George McGovern has told campaign aides that, if he wins the Democratic nomination, he won't choose any of the top presidential contenders for a running mate. His first choice, if he could get him, would be Sen. Ted Kennedy. Other possibilities he has mentioned: Florida's Gov. Reuben Askew, Illinois' Sen. Adlai Stevenson, Indiana's Sen. Birch Bayh and Idaho's Sen. Frank Church. Sen. Hubert Humphrey, in contrast, has indicated he would like McGovern as a running mate.

HARLEM HEROIN — Rep. Charles Rangel, D.N.Y., worried about drug addiction in his Harlem district, has privately asked Central Intelligence Director Richard Helms for 10 studies the CIA has made on worldwide drug routes to the U.S. When Helms declined, Rangel served notice he would invoke the Freedom of Information act.

The Role of Wallace

SILVER SPRING, Md. — The parade of visitors waiting to cheer up Holy Cross Hospital's most-famous patient never looked so distinguished. Larry O'Brien, Ed Muskie, Ted Kennedy and Scoop Jackson formerly figured in George Wallace's affections as voodoo dolls, objects of scorn and buffoonery who probably carried peanut butter sandwiches in their briefcases.

Now the leading Democrats look gravely therapeutic, saying the right things, praising the Alabama governor's spirit. Have they all been seized with an impulse to fill their quota of the corporal works of mercy? Did they suddenly recall that Governor Wallace was really an old school chum?

The unvarnished political fact is that the patient's current medical condition solves one of the Democratic party's major problems: how to treat Wallace with respect and dignity.

When Chairman O'Brien was refusing to consider Wallace's request for hotel rooms in Miami Beach and When Sen. Edmund Muskie was calling for a "demagogue of the worst possible kind," the Democrats obviously had no plans to treat the governor seriously, never mind solemnly.

The assassination attempt against Wallace did not create the need for respectful regard for Wallace. What happened at the Laurel Shopping Center at once exacerbated the Democrats' problem and helped to solve it.

When the traditional unity tableau is formed at the end of the Miami Beach convention for those graduating class photographs, everybody ought to be there, from Gene McCarthy to Shirley Chisholm to Scoop Jackson. A healthy Wallace might not have been; a Wallace in a wheelchair has a much better chance.

"He certainly wants to be there," says his campaign manager, Charles Snider, of the Democratic convention. Although Snider adds that "the possibilities of a third party still loom," the threat sounds increasingly idle. In 1968 and this year the Wallace phenomenon fed on the prime red meat of the Wallace presence and oratory. No surrogate, including his wife Cornelia, could conjure up the same hilarity and anger infecting a Wallace crowd.

No substitute could be as adept in adjusting the valves of a constituency's pent-up frustrations nor as eloquent in cataloguing the bureaucracy's transgressions against the average man.

Wallace's medical condition probably reinforces one aim attributed to him by fellow Southern governors — to be the party's voice of Dixie, the statesmanlike symbol of Southern importance, a bulwark against the party's "writing off" the South to Richard Nixon.

Because Wallace never abandoned his third-party threat, Democratic officials were inclined not to believe this theory. Hence, O'Brien's cavalier treatment of his candidacy and Muskie's assertion that "I hate what he stands for." (Oddly enough, the candidate least vitriolic toward Wallace has been George McGovern, who perceived the source of Wallace strength, seized some of it, perfuming it with the scent of victory.)

The parade of tribute to a bedside here is being paralleled by Democratic convention officials' attempts to find a suitable time for Governor Wallace to address the convention and the nation from his wheelchair. Will Wallace denounce the Democrats and promise a third party? That might please Republicans.

Or will Wallace instead denounce Richard Nixon and all his bureaucratic works? Will he call for unity and a Democratic victory? That bizarre outcome of this year's tragedy would be acclaimed by cheers echoing all the way to the White House.

When the News Ain't News

Time and the acceleration of events have caught television newscasts in a vise. The tube carries the same cheerful, aging faces — Cronkite, Reasoner, Chancellor, Seaver — but the words are stale and the pitch is superficial. Worse, the networks predict events which are yet to occur.

Newspapers are also in the business of predicting and analyzing, but they have lots of room for detailed stories of what happened, where, when and to whom. It has been my opinion that TV news should be the shining objective eye on the world.

The fact that it has failed is a reflection on the sacrosanct news departments of the stations, which bristle at any encroachment by management on their prerogatives, and the fact that all of them try to tailor cut the news to fit the commercials.

Has it ever occurred to you that you are not really interested in a weather report which covers all of the United States? Wouldn't you be satisfied to know that, in your town, the weather tomorrow will be fair or rainy, hot or cold?

You get an expanded weather report because the new department works a commercial before the weathercast and after. Fundamentally, a good newscaster is a reader, not an editor, and hardly a writer. He is worthy of his hire because his tongue glides over the semantic seas without sinking in slipshod sibilation.

It is possible for television to serve a half hour of international, national and local news, in addition to coverage of weather and sports, without editing the material to the film footage at hand. Film comes first.

If the President of the United States is in San Clemente, for example, his presence is not as important to television as the film of 40 wives of Vietnam prisoners who picket the entrance gate. The Black Panthers learned long ago that no protest is going anywhere. Man, unless you call the TV stations first and tell them where you're going to shout and raise the clenched fist.

In New York, Carl Stokes, former mayor of Cleveland, a black, and Paul Udell, a white, swap stiff pleasantries as they read the news for NBC. The little "asides" were discovered by ABC two years ago and it is enthralled the bird watchers that most TV stations insist that the anchorman josh one of his buddies about the new tie he wears or the fact that his third kid is now teething.

The coverage of news during the President's visit to China and Moscow pointed up the sorrowful truth, known to all newspaper reporters, that when the deadline falls due you must come up with something, even though no one knows what is going on. So you guess what is transpiring and attribute it to a "high source" or a "White House spokesman."

Television fears the rating war so much that it underestimates its power. If it had not been for TV, Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. might still be preaching in the Dexter Avenue Church in Montgomery. It can make a man bigger than he is, or smaller, too, as in the case of George Wallace and Richard Nixon.

I feel strongly that more time and better editing will free TV of the bonds of the advertiser. The world of communication is swift, and events pile up like stormy surf. We need to know more about more. The editorials can be junked because they neither enlighten nor alter opinion.

Down the years, I have disagreed with President Nixon more often than not, but I endorse his stand against "instant analysis." It is childishly American that first we hear the President, then, because it is assumed that no one understands a word he uttered, we must listen to the pontificators waiting in the wings to explain everything to us morons.

Lowest on the rung of crashing bores is the sports interview. "How do you think you'll do this season, coach?" "Well, I'll tell ya, if my boys feel real good and we don't have too many injuries, and the weather holds warm and that fella on the other team has a lame back, and we keep our eye on the ball — can't tell. We might win."

That unseen monster who runs the news department in the television station must be made to chew — and swallow — his words . . .

Man Nabbed For Possession Of Weapons

TOWN OF ULSTER A 44-year-old Walton man was in the county jail today facing charges involving weapons as the result of a routine check by two deputy sheriffs. John V. Rocher, of 93 Townsend Street, Walton, was reportedly found by Deputy Sheriff Arthur Nersesian and Willard Bound sitting in a car parked back of the DeWitt-King Lincoln-Mercury building on East Chester Street by-pass during a check of the property. First Sergeant Donald Polcastro said the deputies questioned the man but received no satisfactory answers. As the two officers talked with Rocher they spotted a police nightstick in the vehicle. Later, Rocher allegedly removed a loaded .38 caliber special revolver from the glove compartment and handed it to Nersesian. He had no permit for the gun with him.

Rocher was arraigned before Kingston Town Justice Richard Alberstadt on charges of possessing a deadly loaded weapon—the revolver, and possessing a dangerous instrument—the nightstick. In lieu of bail aggregating $1,000, the accused man was committed to jail and hearing was adjourned until June 6. Polcastro said that search of Rocher's car later revealed a blackjack. He will face an additional felony count, police said. When questioned by deputies, Rocher reportedly explained he was "waiting for a girl" when arrested.

Art Theft Case Slated June 15

WORCESTER, Mass. (UPI)—Three men and a woman charged with the theft of four paintings valued at more than $1 million are due back in court June 15.

The case was continued Thursday in District Court to allow further investigation into the whereabouts of the two Gauguins, one Rembrandt and one Picasso, which were stolen more than two weeks ago from the Worcester Art Museum. Two masked men committed the robbery, wounding a guard who tried to stop them. The four were ordered held in bail set when they were arrested.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Joseph Dyer said he sought the continuance to get more time to investigate the case against the four defendants, as the search for the art works continues. Interpol—the international police organization—and the FBI are among agencies participating in the worldwide hunt.

The four arrested in the case are David Aquafresca, 22, William J. Carlson, 28, and Stephen A. Thoren, 33, all of Worcester and all accused of armed robbery and assault and battery with a dangerous weapon, and Mrs. Carol Naster, 30, Worcester, charged as an accessory.

Some Green Thumb Advice

By GEORGE ABRAHAM

NAPLES, N.Y.

Red Hot Salvia: If you're looking for something really showy, grow one of our annuals — the salvia. They are called the "poor man's geranium". Actually, they are just as showy and a lot cheaper. Some people even use them in porch and window boxes in place of geraniums. One reason why so many gardeners do not grow salvia is they feel that the plants bloom too late to have value. The old varieties used to be late blooming, but today we have varieties that start blooming in July, so there's really no reason for growing the late types. In selecting salvias, remember this rule: Tall salvias bloom later than the dwarf varieties. Red Pillar is one of the best dwarf salvias we've ever grown. It grows 15 inches high and has densely-packed spikes of dazzling scarlet on dwarf bushy plants. St. John's fire is another early and dwarf salvia, growing a foot high. It starts to bloom about the 1st of August and like all salvias, will continue right on until frost. A brand new variety called Hot Plants is an early bloomer, starting around late July or early August. Unlike the other early salvias, it is said not to be "seedy" as the season advances, but keeps on blooming in the greatest profusion.

Ever grow the Blue salvia.

Seed Tape... A New Concept

Unlimited Advantages

NEW YORK — The ancient Egyptians may have started something when they tried to simplify sowing by pasting seeds onto strips of papyrus, but the concept wasn't perfected until 3000 years later when Seed Tape was introduced to today's home gardener and professional grower.

A development of Union Carbide Corporation, Seed Tape consists of varying lengths of narrow water-soluble plastic tape into which seeds of a wide range of popular flower and vegetable seeds have been introduced at equal intervals. When this unique tape is laid at the proper depth in furrows, developed from Seed Tape than from the same number of seeds individually planted by conventional methods. As a result, an increasing number of leading growers have recognized the economical benefits of Seed Tape and incorporated it into their planting programs.

The advantages offered by Seed Tape to the home gardener and professional grower are practically unlimited. Young children, in particular, enjoy gardening more since this new concept helps them avoid many of the common difficulties and mistakes that lead to disappointment with plants.

There's no longer any need to manually space each seed in its row and run the risk of losing seeds from spillage out of packets. Handling is greatly simplified, especially in the case of small seed such as that of snapdragon and petunia, and the time necessary to plant a flower or vegetable garden is noticeably reduced.

In addition to planting in straight rows, Seed Tape can be used to make circles, curved lines, ellipses and other planting designs to conform to shapes of beds or to suit individual planting preferences. Lengths are easily cut with ordinary scissors.

A high rate of germination is assured since Seed Tape uses the best quality seeds available for uniform sprouting with a minimum of gaps between seedlings. Thinning requirements are also greatly lessened because of favorable initial spacing of seeds in the tape. More uniform flowering results from the use of this remarkable gardening aid.

Just about the only requirement is a well-prepared seed bed containing well-worked soil fortified as needed with peat moss, humus or leaf mold. Beyond that, the only other consideration is the depth at which each Seed Tape is planted. Simple but complete directions for use are included on packages and should be followed closely.

Seed Tape is currently being sold under the trade names of most major seed companies and is available to home gardeners at your garden centers, hardware stores, nurseries and other retail outlets. It is also available from a number of mail order sources.

Ground Cover: Many Guises

By Sheila &amp; Allan Swenson

Nobody loves naked ground. Bare spots are total despair. Ground covers are the answer for problem areas around your home grounds. They have a lot to offer.

Ground covers range from easy-to-grow foliage plants to floral displays, from low lying shrubs to mulches. But for most families ground covers are a way to decorate difficult spots.

Most people prefer greenery. What you plant depends on your area, soil conditions and the sun or shade or slope of the area.

If the area is sunny exposed, sloping, you might just as well enjoy it. Plant berry thickets. In a year or so blackberries or raspberries can cover a slope, hold the soil with help of mulches to avoid erosion.

On really difficult areas, especially steep slopes, state highway departments have found an answer... Crown vetch! Farmers found it first to stop erosion on steep slopes. You get a double bonus with vetch. It puts down deep roots. As a legume it fixes nitrogen from the air. It thereby fertilizes soil naturally. Eventually, trees and shrubs interplanted on slopes started in vetch, or clover (another legume) will add depths of beauty to what once were problem spots.

Ivy, pachysandra, bayberry, low-growing junipers, myrtle and other ground covers are adaptable and naturally perennial. Some offer color, others foliage. The choice is yours. Our new book, "The Practical Book of Organic Gardening" (Award Books), includes a special chapter on Ground Covers, in more detail than a single column will allow.

When you plan a ground cover it should solve a problem permanently. That means thorough soil preparation. Till or turn soil 6 to 10 inches deep. Incorporate as much organic matter as possible, from composted humus to manure, including leaf mold and whatever organic material possible. Improving tilth is as important as fertility when you build a ground cover.

Set plants, seedlings and shrubs according to specifications from the nursery or garden center. Water well after planting and mulch with leaves, grass clippings, compost.

Hand pick weeds the first season. Next year, you'll be well on the way to greening up those problem areas naturally.

The Annual Phlox... Extra Easy to Grow

Often the brightest color in the garden comes from one of the shortest plants — annual phlox. These are quick-flowering beauties that continue to bloom all summer. Yet they're extra easy to grow.

If you can supply a place in full sun, preferably where the soil is rich but light, this is where to sow the seeds. While these little phlox bloom well in ordinary garden soil, the richer, better drained mixture will result in superior blossoms.

Annual phlox grows only six to eight inches tall in Globe, Ideal Bedding or Beauty strains. All are available with mixed flower colors although separate color selections have been made from the Beauty strain. Thus Blue Beauty, Crimson, Pink, Salmon or White Beauty will grow into plants with flowers of just one color. Because the bright colors are so desirable and, on occasion, you may prefer those flowers on taller stems, you may wish to buy a 15-inch-tall annual phlox.

In this case look at the catalog or on the packet for a designation "tall" or a hybrid strain called Gigantea. For largest flowers, buy Glamour, a tetraploid variety with medium salmon petals accented by a creamy-white eye in the center of each inch-and-three-quarter bloom.

All of the annual strains and varieties described have smooth-edged petals. But there's also a kind with such pointed, fringed petals that each bloom resembles a tiny star. Appropriately, this is called Twinkles and to see it is to love it.

Schermerhorn Scores Opponents' Remarks

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON

Questioning the "campaign

ethics" of his Republican

Primary opponent, Anthony

Barone, State Sen. Richard E.

Schermerhorn told Youth-in-Government representatives

recently in Kingston that Barone's attacks on two of his ills "are a complete distortion of truth."

Schermerhorn said that

Barone has indicated that "a senate bill introduced by me would allow people to carry firearms thereby turning our society into a lawless frontier, with people walking the streets with guns strapped to their hips.

"My bill has nothing to do with firearms," said the Republican Conservative candidate. "It would merely allow people to carry certain weapons or instruments and be allowed to use them in self defense in the event of an assault or attack, without being charged with a felony.

"Certain weapons would be described as mace, hat pins, letter openers etc. The Sullivan

Law controls the use of firearms."

Schermerhorn, who seeks election in Ulster County's new

40th District, including the City of Kingston, also told of Barone's "distortion of the truth" concerning another of the senator's bills on education.

Barone reportedly had charged that Schermerhorn

amended the education law making it lawful for persons, clubs and committees to use school facilities to support or oppose school budgets.

"Again, this is a complete distortion of the truth,"

Schermerhorn said, "My bill clearly states that it shall be unlawful for these persons or organizations to use school facilities to oppose or support school budgets.

"When someone is as weak

as my opponent on the issues and must resort to distortion and untruth to mount any kind of meaningful campaign, I think they should not be allowed to be a candidate," Schermerhorn stated.

Schermerhorn said that

Barone "tells everyone that I am against teacher tenure, which again is an untruth. I voted for the five-year tenure bill in 1970 and in 1972 voted for a bill that would allow teachers already employed prior to the passage of the five-year bill, but still in their probationary period, to receive tenure under the old law or within three years.

"I also sponsored and had passed a bill providing teacher's survivor's benefits in the amount of $3,000.

"Another bill which I sponsored would allow teachers the right to withdraw his contributions from the Teachers

Retirement System at the time of retirement, or he may direct that the accumulated contributions be transferred from the annuity savings fund to the annuity reserve fund.

"Does this indicate that I am not in support of teachers programs as charged by Orange County Chairman William

Doulin's boy? Again, his entire campaign is a distortion of the truth," he said.

Schermerhorn said that he thinks it is time to take "a good hard look" at the election law that relates to candidates for public office concerning their ethics and what rules and regulations should be followed, with penalties when a candidate continually distorts the truth about his opponent.

Schermerhorn, who has been endorsed by the Ulster County

GOP, was unable to get the endorsement of Doulin's Orange County Republican Committee

because he refused to give up the Conservative endorsement given him by Orange County.

Educator to Address Academy Graduation

KINGSTON
Noted educator Hans K. Maeder will be the commencement speaker at graduation exercises of Ulster Academy.

The program begins at 3 p.m. on Sunday, June 4, in the Crystal Ballroom of the Governor Clinton Hotel in Kingston.

Dr. Maeder, born in Germany and educated at private schools in Switzerland and Denmark, earned a doctorate from the University of Hamburg but the award was held up by the government of Adolph Hitler and was not granted until after World War II.

Despite his position in a prominent German banking family and the fact that he had a brother who was a general in the German army, Dr. Maeder played a prominent part in anti-government activities during the early days of the Third Reich. He was arrested in 1936 but managed to escape to Denmark. During the next four years, under various disguises, he reentered Germany to help organize resistance groups.

With Germany taking control of most of Europe, Dr. Maeder went to Africa and the Far East, and on December 3, 1941, four days before the attack on Pearl Harbor, wrote an article for a Honolulu newspaper predicting a Japanese attack on American possessions in the mainland and was arrested a short time later for false papers. Confined to an enemy alien camp in Texas, he was later released because other German refugees had told of his anti-fascist work in Germany. In 1942 he became director of the Walden School in Walden and in 1945 founded the Stockbridge School in Lenox, Massachusetts, retiring as its director in 1970 to found an educational consulting firm.

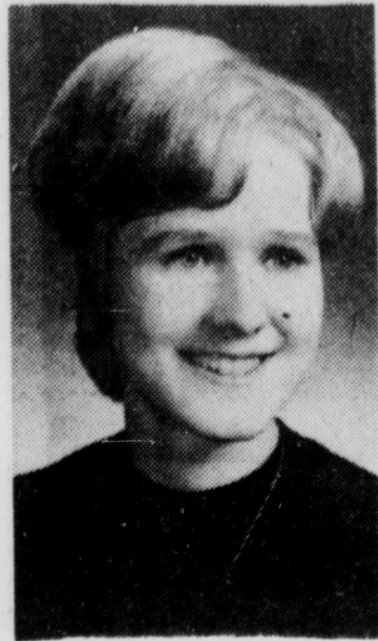

Kingston graduates are: Craig N. Moss, Elmendorf Tract; Lynelle D. Schwartz, 50 Ringtop Road; Barry L. Rose, 65 Amsterdam Avenue; Steven J. Levine, 410 Pearl Street; Judith G. London, 300 Pearl Street; and James P. Gover, 48 West Chestnut Street.

Also: Diane L. Davenport, Box 145; Julie L. Paige, 24 Savoy Street; Kathleen R.

Locke, 131 Marius Street; Steven L. Aaron, Forest Hill Drive; Edward S. Halpern, 126 Madison Avenue; John J. Solian, 299 East Chester Street; and Suzanne E. Lown, 72 Orchard Street.

Other area graduates are: Charlotte H. Hoppe, Ulster Park; Peter J. Wasserman, 955 Park Avenue, New York City; Frederick W. Bright, RD 1, Saugerties; Julian C. Wilson, RD1, Rhinebeck; Sean Mulligan, 278 Glasco Turnpike, Woodstock; and Lynn Buhalis, John Joy Road, Woodstock.

VON STEUBEN DAY DRILL TEAM

Von Steuben Tribute Set

VAILS GATE The New Windsor Cantonment, the last winter encampment of General Washington's Northern Continental Army will pay tribute to General Baron von Steuben, the Drill Master of the American Revolution Sunday.

In the summer of 1777, the Baron upon learning of the American Revolution went to France and offered his services to Benjamin Franklin, then the American envoy to France. Travel funds were advanced, and Franklin penned a letter to Washington introducing the Baron as a Lieutenant General in the King of Prussia's service. With these credentials the Baron left Marseilles in the fall of 1777 and on Feb. 23, 1778, reported to Washington at Valley Forge. Although he spoke no English and his French was limited, Steuben drafted a training program that was to quickly change the character of the entire Continental Army. He soon won the hearts of soldiers and eventually the admiration of all who had a part in the struggle for Independence.

Ceremonies will commence at 1 p.m. and will include a drill and parade by volunteer regiments in the authentic uniforms and weapons used during the American Revolution. In addition, there will be a mock skirmish dramatically showing the great effect Steuben had on the American Army during our fight for Independence. The units presently planning to participate on Sunday are the First New York Regiment and the British Light Infantry Company, 64th Regiment of Foot.

The New Windsor Cantonment is open daily to the public from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. except Mondays and Tuesdays. Picnic areas and a refreshment stand are available on the grounds. There is no charge for parking or admission.

Paltz Budget Vote Scheduled June 14

NEW PALTZ School District voters will be asked to approve a budget totaling $3,464,614 in appropriations when they go to the polls Wednesday, June 14.

There also are three seats on the board of education open, with seven candidates running.

The budget total is up $183,056.47 over the 1971-72 budget. The amount to be raised by local taxes is estimated at $1, 850,309.42. This estimated figure is up $139,600.75 over last year's amount.

It is estimated that the tax rate for district residents in the Town of New Paltz will rise about $6 per thousand of assessed valuation. This is barely a 3 per cent rise over the tax rate of $207.72 per thousand for New Paltz residents for this year.

Business Administrator Frank Hamilton said Thursday that the largest increases in the budget were for unallocated charges and debt service.

Unallocated charges total $71,619.39 in the proposed budget, and mainly consist of employee benefits such as teacher retirement and Social Security.

The debt service will be $81,670, mainly for the interest and payment on the Duzine School bonds. Hamilton said about $10,000 of the figure will be for the bonds on the three new school buses authorized last year.

"There haven't been many other increases," said Hamilton.

Thanks to computerization of the district's bus routes, Hamilton said the district was able to take $26,000 out of the budget it would otherwise have to have included.

The other proposition on the ballot June 14 will be one which will make the district money. The voters will be asked to approve the leasing of three classrooms to Ulster County ROCES for the year to carry on a special education program. ROCES will pay the district $9,000 for the three classrooms, if the measure is approved.

Running for the three seats on the board will be two incumbents, president Donald B. Martin, and John K. Ashton Jr., Peter Ford, John K. Ashton Jr., Geroge Goehren, Bart Wagner, and Harry White. All seats will be for three years.

The voting will be held in the Middle School Auditorium from 2 to 9 p.m.

The annual district meeting will be held Tuesday, June 13, in the High School Auditorium, the June 8.

Voters may register any week from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the district office, 196 Main Street, New Paltz.

To be eligible to vote in the election, a person must be a citizen of the United States, 18 years old, and a resident within the district for a period of 30 days before the vote.

The last day to register will be June 8.

Computers Saving Money

By WADE BURKHART

NEW PALTZ The use of computers is saving the New Paltz School District money in running its buses. Business Administrator Frank Hamilton estimates the district will save $26,000 thanks to computers in its operation of the buses next year.

The New Paltz district is a pioneer in the complete computerization of district bus routes, and Hamilton is the prime mover behind it. He said Thursday he thought no other district in New York State, and few in the country, had computerized its bus routes to the extent the New Paltz district has.

How can a computer save all that money? It figured out a way for the district to get its students to school next year using only 20 buses instead of the 30 buses it used this year. The benefit of this reduction are manifold.

Not only are fewer buses used, with the obvious decrease in operating costs, but the routes are much shorter and more compact. Students are on the bus less time. The district has three 1964 buses it can take out of service. The rest of the fleet can be rotated, insuring longer life for all of them.

"It will be sometime before the district has to buy more buses," Hamilton said.

In getting New Paltz into the scheduling of bus routes by computer business, Hamilton has become a recognized expert in the field. He has spoken to school officials either in person or by telephone all across the country, and in Canada and Liberia.

Next year will be the third the district has used the computers, and Hamilton says the program is getting better each year.

The first year the district went to the computer, Hamilton got up a brochure explaining the new system. The figures he used to illustrate the size of the New Paltz operation are already out of date.

The district is still 104 square miles, it still serves about 2,200 students, and it still delivers them to four schools in its main operation. The four schools are the Duzine, Middle, and High Schools, and the Campus School of the State University College at New Paltz. The Gardiner School is not included in the computerization because it is only one bus making one run.

However, the number of routes the buses run has dropped from 45 to 40. The vehicles needed will have dropped from 38 to 20. And the 350,000 miles the vehicles drove the first year of operation will drop to only about 200,000 next year.

New Paltz spent about $1,300 to get into the operation, and spends "a couple of hundred dollars" each year to update it, Hamilton estimated.

To allow the computer to pick out the routes, it has to know such things as the number of students, number of buses available, location of the students, available roads, and related factors. Hamilton has a card with the pertinent information for each student in the district, and he said it takes him about two hours to update and refile them.

The computer took about an hour and a half this year to pick out the district's most favorable routes. Then it took Hamilton some time to plot the routes on a map. The total time spent was about a day.

The reason more districts don't get into the computer business is they find the process looks too formidable when they first get into it. Apparently it's not too formidable when you get it set up.

IBM has worked with Hamilton in setting up the New Paltz program, now regarded as a model of its type, and Hamilton recommends any district interested contact IBM to get started.

Amorous Teacher Draws Low Grade

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I've heard of students having crushes on their teachers, but what about the teacher who has a crush on a student?

There's this 14-year-old girl in one of my classes who is just beautiful. I can't keep my eyes off her even tho she is half my age.

Do other teachers have problems like this? What's to be done? My class is her favorite class. I don't believe in anonymous letters so I will sign my name, but please respect my need for anonymity.

TEMPTED TEACHER
DEAR ABBY: Teachers have crushes on students for the same reason students have crushes on teachers. Immaturity. (I refer to a 14-year-old panting after a 28-year-old, and vice versa.) What's to be done? Admire her from afar and keep your eyes, thoughts (and everything else) off her. Small wonder your class is her "favorite." You've telegraphed your feelings to her, and she got the message.

DEAR ABBY: I live near a lovely elderly couple who buried their only daughter two years ago.

Before this daughter's death she started an afghan for her mother. She was about three-quarters finished when she passed away, poor soul. Well, I love to do needlework and had plenty of time, so I offered to finish the afghan. My neighbor said she would be grateful if only I would.

I finished it gladly, and when I presented it to my neighbor we both cried.

Abby, I was so happy to do that small favor for my neighbor, but she spoiled it all when she gave me a beautiful appreciation card with a $20 bill in it. I was so hurt I just didn't know what to do. I didn't want any pay. I felt it was an honor to finish something her daughter had started for her. I still want to return the $20 but my husband says I will hurt her feelings something terrible. Please help me decide.

HURT
DEAR HURT: Consider the woman's feelings. She expressed her appreciation in a manner that she thought fitting. Don't fault her. I think your husband is right.

DEAR ABBY: "HARD OF HEARING" asks, "So what do I do when I cup my ear and strain to hear until I am nearly exhausted, and people look at me as tho to say, 'I'll give this cheap dumb cluck who's deaf and won't wear a hearing aid a hard time, and refuse to speak up?'"

Let me tell you about a friend of mine. He wears a dummy hearing aid, which looks exactly like a real one, but isn't. His explanation:

"I have a partial hearing loss, but I can hear all right if people will speak up. But for some strange reason they resent being told to speak up. I used to wear a real hearing aid, which as soon as it was discovered, caused everyone to talk so loudly to me they practically shattered my eardrum. So now I wear a dummy hearing aid, which causes people to speak up as soon as they see it."

MRS. H.: ROSEWILL, N. ME.
DEAR MRS. H.: Hear, hear!

DEAR ABBY: I was pleased with your handling of the Reverend Problem in Meadville, Pa.

I am a 76-year-old retired Lutheran pastor and I do not resent it when someone says, "Good morning, Reverend." Some people do not always remember my last name. Doctors are called "Doc-wants to can examine them. NO ERRORS OR ANYTHING

DEAR ABBY: Several months ago I went to visit a nephew who lives in another city. While there, I attended church with him. When the my nephew took a five dollar bill from his wallet, placed it on the collection plate, then took two one dollar bills from the collection plate and placed them in his wallet! I was shocked.

Abby, I had never seen anyone "make change" from a collection plate before. Is this proper?

SHOCKED
DEAR SHOCKED: Why not? Far better to put in five and take out two than to put in nothing because he had only a five, which may have been beyond his budget.

Problems? Trust Abby. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, BOX 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069 and enclose a stamped, addressed envelope.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

(Hear Dear Abby Monday thru Sat. at 10:25 a.m. WKHY-1490)

Coach House Elections

The annual meeting of Coach House Players was held on Monday, May 22, at the Coach House on Augusta Street.

Elected by the membership to fill three vacant positions on the Board of Directors were Dorothy Scholl, Chris Beal and Bill LaVoie, the term of office being three years. The Board of Directors now stands as follows: George Quartell, Pat Bottino, Terri Serravalle, Jerry Brennan, Buddy Gardner, Ray Caddy, Dorothy Scholl, Chris Beal and Bill LaVoie.

New officers for the 1972-73 season are President, George Quartell; vice president, Pat Bottino; treasurer, Jerry Brennan; recording secretary, Terri Serravalle; corresponding secretary, Dorothy Scholl. Productions for the 1972-73 season are "Fiddler on the Roof," a drama, "Wait Until Dark," and a comedy "Black Comedy."

Outgoing President Roger Scholl thanked all the committee chairman, their staffs and all Coach House members for the hard work and support given during the last year.

Announcement will be made shortly for the Coach House Annual Scholarship winners.

These are awarded each year to local high school students who wish to continue their education in the arts.

Entertainment for the evening was a salute in dance to the late Irving Berlin. The three young talented performers were Miss Cathy Askue, Miss Charlyn Herdman and Miss Charlie Buser, under the direction of Mrs. Arthur Moak, Director of Blanche's Dance Studio. Hostesses for the evening were Elizabeth Askue, Marge Cooley.

The season will close officially for all members at the annual banquet to be held June 17 at the Williams Lake Hotel. All members must make reservations with Linda Quartell by June 10th.

Tiny Tips

Avoid Fire Threats

To avoid threat of fire sponge away food spills and grease on the kitchen stove.

Figure Identification

Fashion authorities say today's dresses aren't built from the inside out—or with underfacing, as it's known in the garment industry. They're built to make the anatomy detectable.

Out of Place Clothes

Nothing is more out of place than childish clothes on a young girl.

Take VD Out of Dark Ages

Can you get syphilis from kissing? How do I know if I have it? Can you get gonorrhea from not taking a bath? Can I go to a doctor for treatment without him telling my parents?

Does your youngster know the answers to these questions? Do you?

Metropolitan Life recently sponsored a series of interviews on venereal disease. Young men and women between the ages of 16 and 26 were interviewed to find out what they knew about the subject. The results showed that many of the young men and women were unsure of the facts and sometimes even naive . . . and, when they felt they did know some of the facts, their responses usually were inaccurate.

This kind of ignorance would seem to belong to the dark ages — not to the enlightened 1970s.

For an idea of just how dangerous this lack of knowledge is, you should know that today syphilis ranks as a major killer among communicable diseases. As for gonorrhea, at least two million cases occurred in 1970, and the incidence of reported cases is still increasing — especially among those under 25.

In other words, although science has known how to cure syphilis since 1909 and gonorrhea since 1943, America is in the middle of a VD epidemic.

Why should the situation be so bad? There are many factors. In addition to ignorance, an equally important factor is embarrassment. This is a situation in which people may literally "die from embarrassment." And, it is all so unnecessary!

To make life and health-saving information on VD available without causing embarrassment, Metropolitan Life has recently published a new booklet called, "Facts You Should Know About VD, But Probably Don't."

The booklet answers all of the above questions and more, honestly and even bluntly. For example, to the question "Can you get syphilis from kissing?" — the booklet replies in part "No, you don't get syphilis from kissing, unless the person happens to have the infection in the mouth. And you don't get it from a toilet seat, from a drinking fountain, from using someone's comb, or from holding hands, either."

Symptoms for both syphilis and gonorrhea are described and so are tests and treatments. Metropolitan Life believes that it is a good idea for everyone to ask for VD tests as part of a routine physical exam.

You can write for a free copy of "Facts You Should Know About VD, But Probably Don't," to Metropolitan Life, Box V, One Madison Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10010, or to Metropolitan Life, Pacific Coast Head Office, P.O. Box 7750, San Francisco, Calif., 94120.

Your request will be kept confidential.

Remember . . . "Finding out whether or not you have VD can't hurt you, but not finding out can."

Doing the Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST

Dear Mrs. Post:

My husband and I were invited to dinner recently by friends who have made a practice of including, on these occasions in the past, persons we did not know and with whom we had little in common. We declined as courteously as we could, explaining we would prefer sharing an evening together without persons of little or no interest to us. Our friends said they understood and would invite us again at a later date, but we haven't heard from them since. Were we wrong in doing what we did?

Mrs. B. L.

I think you made a great mistake, and I suspect you haven't heard from your friends again because you have led them to believe you would not be very interesting guests yourselves.

How can you possibly expand your range of friends and acquaintances if you refuse to go to parties where there are people you do not know? One of the primary reasons for social entertainment is to get to know new people. You may think you don't have much in common with them, but you might frequently be surprised. If you don't, you need never see those people again, but you may be missing a very interesting experience by not even giving yourself a chance to become acquainted.

I always recommend that hosts include some people who are not regular members of the group. It certainly leads to an exchange of new ideas and different views than one generally talks about with the same old friends.

Dear Mrs. Post:

I drink at a nice bar. When the steak that I order arrives at a booth, I leave the bar and eat at the booth. When finished eating, I leave a substantial tip at the booth, thinking that the barmaid, who usually delivers the food, and the cook will share equally, then I return to the bar. Could I pay at the bar as well?

After Mike's Walk Beat Them The Yankees Howled

(By Combined Services)

Oh, how those Yankees howled after relief pitcher Jim Roland walked four batters in the 12th inning Thursday to give Milwaukee Brewers a 9-8 win over the Yankees.

And, you know who drew the first walk in the inning and eventually scored the winning run? Mike Ferraro. You know, the guy the Yankees said didn't have it as a major leaguer.

Roland gave up only two singles after coming on in relief in the eighth walked Ferraro to open the 12th. He was sacrificed to second by John Felske. He walked Bill Voss and got Johnny Briggs on a fly ball. Then came successive walks to Ron Theobald and Rick Auerback to force in Ferraro and give the Brewers the win.

The Brewers appeared to have the game won 8-7 with one out in the ninth when Bobby Murcer hit his fourth home run of the season to send the game into extra innings.

Manager Ralph Houk of the Yankees blew his top when Auerback walked on a 3-2 count, arguing vehemently that Roland's pitch, a fast ball, had caught the outside corner.

"It's getting so bad it's getting ridiculous," fumed Bobby Murcer in support of his manager. "There's no justice. If a ballplayer doesn't do his job he gets fired, but if an umpire doesn't do his job he just stays out there."

Suspended Year for Rules Infractions

Jane Blalock Files Suit Against LPGA

ATLANTA (AP) — Jane Blalock, one of the most promising young players on the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour, countered a one-year suspension Thursday by filing a $5 million lawsuit against the organization.

The suspension "for actions inconsistent with the code of ethics of the organization" was announced here Thursday by E. M. "Bud" Erickson, LPGA executive director, only hours before two New York attorneys filed the suit on Miss Blalock's behalf in U.S. District Court.

The suit also seeks a court order to permit Miss Blalock to compete in tournaments while the case is being resolved. Judge Charles A. Moyer Jr. scheduled a hearing on that motion for 10 a.m. today in his chambers.

Miss Blalock, a 26-year-old blue-eyed blonde from Portsmouth, N.H., is the leading money winner on the LPGA tour this year with $32,886.

In only her fourth year on the tour, she already has won honors as rookie of the year in 1969 and most improved golfer in 1970 and 1971.

Miss Blalock is asking for damages of not less than $1 million, to be trebled as provided by law. She also seeks $1 million for compensatory damages and $1 million for punitive damages.

Erickson said the suspension was taken after Miss Blalock met with the executive committee three times in the last 10 days. He said she was advised of the suspension Tuesday night.

Miss Blalock wasn't available for comment on the matter and Erickson declined to comment on her lawsuit. "We will answer the complaint at the proper time," he said.

Erickson said Miss Blalock was disqualified after the second round of the Blue Grass Invitational at Louisville May 20 "for violation of replacing of ball on green improperly." He said she signed a scorecard for a 74 rather than a 76 and was subject to disqualification for signing an incorrect scorecard.

Violation of the rule regarding the spotting of a ball on a green calls for a two shot penalty.

Erickson said she was told by she was disqualified at Louisville.

Jack Blalock, brother of the professional golfer Jane Blalock, says some of the other professional golfer Jane Blalock, says some of the other

"I think they're picking on her because she's doing so well," Blalock said Thursday night. "I guess without her they'd make more money."

Richard Blalock, Jane's father, released an official statement from her concerning the year-long suspension announced Thursday by the Ladies Professional Golf Tour. It read:

"I regret the unpleasantness that the incident has caused both the LPGA and me. I feel, however, that the action of the LPGA Executive Board was unfair. Never in my life have I knowingly taken advantage of the rules of golf."

Jane's father said she would practice for the upcoming Lady Eve tournament in Sutton, N.H. Jane has filed a $5 million suit against the LPGA, which said it suspended her after an investigation that followed her disqualification and $500 fine at the Bluegrass Invitational in Louisville, Ky. At that time, she was accused of illegally moving a ball and of signing an incorrect scorecard.

"I don't know what they mean by investigation," Jack said, "except that a bunch of the girls were just talking and trying to bring some more action aside from what they had already done, giving her the fine and disqualifying her. As far as investigation, I guess some of them said they had seen her do things unbecoming of the ethics."

"I have talked to some myself that are friendly with my sister and they said they've also seen all the other ones do things that were in the same category and they never said anything because they never considered that important."

Jack, who sometimes acts as an assistant for his sister on the tour, said all his sister wants to get out of her court suit "is just to play."

"When I talked to her a couple days ago she said she just wanted to play golf," he said.

McAndrew's Stock On the Upswing

NEW YORK (AP) — There has been a feeling the last few years around the New York Mets that pitcher Jim McAndrew, a native of Lost Nation, Iowa, was simply a lost cause on the mound.

Whenever trade talk swirled around Shea Stadium, McAndrew's name was the first one raised, because he was the most expendable player on the club. But the deals were never made.

"I know why, too," smiled McAndrew Thursday night after beating Philadelphia 6-1. "I simply didn't have any market value."

He didn't then, but he does now.

The victory over the Phillies was his second straight route-going effort, which is two more than he had all of last year. It upped his record to 4-1, which is considerably more comforting than the 2-5 log he had a year ago.

"And don't forget," he said, "both of those victories last year were in September."

McAndrew came to training camp this spring intent on adding something new to his pitching repertoire, which obviously needed something new. He decided on a forkball, and although he uses it no more than eight or 10 times in a game, he claims its presence keeps opposing hitters off balance.

"Just showing it to them and letting them know I have it helps," said McAndrew.

It also helps to have a four-run cushion in the first inning, and that's what the Mets gave him against the Phillies. Rusty Staub produced three of the runs with his seventh homer of the season.

That gave McAndrew some margin for error, and he needed it. He wasn't overpowering the Phillies. Every body in the ballpark knew it. "I was up and down and all around and then, boom, I'd throw one good pitch," he said. "When I did, it shocked everybody, the catcher, the batter, the umpire and even me."

PAUL RICHARDS

Richards Replaced

ATLANTA (UPI)—Long-time baseball executive Paul Richards Thursday was replaced for all practical purposes by Farm Director Eddie Robinson as general manager of the Atlanta Braves.

Braves President Bill Bartholomay, who "doesn't believe in general managers as such," announced that Robinson would take over "the day to day handling of the ball club" and that Richards, who has run the team for the past five years, out.

would become mainly "a super scout."

Pill Lucas, Robinson's assistant, moves up to run the Braves' farm system and thus becomes the first black elevated to that post in the major leagues.

Bartholomay wouldn't come right out and say as much but it was apparent that Richards, who spent 11 years as a major league manager, at Chicago and Baltimore, before becoming general manager at Baltimore and Houston, was being eased

Kayak Champ Due at Phoenicia

PHOENICIA — The Kayak and Canoe Club division — Barbara and Nor- Eric Evans of Hanover, N.H., has announced that some 200 national champion in the K-1 class, heads the field of top contenders in the annual White Water Slalom Races Saturday and Sunday.

The races are sponsored jointly by the Phoenicia Rotary Club and the Kayak and Canoe Club of New York. Starting time both days is 9:30 a.m., with the race course set in the rapids near the old railroad bridge in the heart of Phoenicia.

The Kayak and Canoe Club division — Barbara and Nor- Eric Evans of Hanover, N.H., has announced that some 200 national champion in the K-1 class, heads the field of top contenders in the annual White Water Slalom Races Saturday and Sunday.

of New York has promised to open the portals of the reservoir, if needed. At the moment race conditions appear to be the finest ever, Bliss said.

Canoe and kayak whitewater slalom racing has been included in the Olympics for the first time in the history of the games. The four whitewater classes to be held in the 1972 Olympics are single kayak, single canoe, two-man canoe and single kayak for women. All classes will be contested here over the weekend.

If you have never seen a whitewater slalom race under expert conditions, it works like this:

Precise boat handling rather than strength, endurance or court choosing is required since the course is set on a short stretch of rapids and consists of a sequence of gates hung from wires above the stream. Each gate is made up of two poles between which the paddler must pass without touching.

The gates are numbered and must be passed in order. They are arranged in such a way as to require careful maneuvering to get from one to the next, sometimes requiring a boat to go backwards or go upstream against the torrents.

There are five classes of water, beginning with small rapids with small waves and few obstacles up to long rapids with irregular waves, boulders directly in the current, strong, cross currents and abrupt ends.

Try it, you'll like it!

Marist College Crew Swamped

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Pennsylvania, Northeastern and defending champion Cornell varsity eight-oared crews have earned starting spots for Saturday's title race in the 70th National Intercollegiate Rowing Championships.

The three Eastern oar powers won their heats Thursday in the weather-plagued, abbreviated opening round of competition on Onondaga Lake.

Quarterming winds that gusts above 20 knots caused a 2½-hour delay in the start of qualifying races in the varsity, junior varsity and freshmen eights.

As a result, first-round competition in the varsity and freshmen fours and the varsity pairs were postponed until this morning.

Repechage races, which give first-round non-winners a second chance to reach the finals, were scheduled in all six events this afternoon.

Cornell, which nipped the University of Washington for the varsity eight title here last year, was one of three teams to qualify crews in two events Thursday, winning a JV as well as a varsity heat.

The other double winners were Washington and Wisconsin, qualifying their first and JV crews.

Syracuse qualified its yearling eight in a heat that saw regatta newcomers Marist College of Poughkeepsie, N.Y., and Coast Guard get their feet—and everything else—wet when their shells were swamped by waves on the choppy lake.

Patrol boats brought the drenched rowers safely to shore.

"We took a lot of water right at the start," said Marist coxswain Bill Crawford of Philadelphia. "I knew we were going to swamp, but with a couple of hundred meters to go I thought we might make it."

The Coast Guard crew became waterlogged halfway through the 2,000-meter course. Penn's varsity eight won its heat easily, outdistancing previously unbeaten Washington by a length. Cornell had nearly the same margin over its closest rival, Navy.

Northeastern, the Eastern Springs champ, recorded the day's best time of 6 minutes, 33.5 seconds in its qualifier.

Richardson Lone U.S. Survivor at Sandwich

SANDWICH, England (UPI) — Kemp Richardson says he shouldn't be here today—but he is, and very much concerned with the final stages of the British Amateur golf championship.

The unheralded American, from Huntington Beach, Calif., reached the quarter finals of the week-long match play events with magnificent victories Thursday.

Today's program called for the quarter and semi-final rounds with the Californian, six Englishmen and a Scotsman occupying the starring roles at Royal St. Georges, 6,663 yards, par 70 links.

Richardson, a 26-year-old stockbroker who is "on vacation," eliminated one of the eight seeds and a powerful Scotsman Thursday. All week his standard of golf has been consistently high. He was three under par for the holes played while taking care of British Walker Cup player Michael King by 2 and 1 in the fourth round, then overcame Pete Bucher 3 and 1 in the afternoon.

That lined up today's morning match against 1958 runner-up Alan Thirlwell of England. The reward for the winner was an afternoon clash with either top seed and five-time winner Michael Bonallack or his Walker Cup teammate Rodney Foster for a place in Saturday's 36 hole final.

Foster was the man who eliminated both Marty West of Washington and Dick Siderow of Westport, Conn.

"I certainly did not expect to last this long," the 6-foot-2 Richardson said modestly. "This is the first time I've entered and the only reason I'm here is because it made a good vacation for my wife Marsha."

Marsha, a petite blonde who followed him around the course in hail and rain—"we've only been married a year," she said by way of explanation—is a stewardess. "We get the cheap travel because of that," her husband said.

Richardson, who was an All-American at the University of Southern California in 1968, said his best achievements in golf were before, "I had to start working for a living." He was runner-up in the Western Amateur in 1968 and won the Pacific Coast conference in 1967 and 1968.

"But I don't play much competitive golf now," he added.

Vesta's Popular Wins Raceway Feature

Harlan Marv seemed to have Monticello Raceway's Thursday night featured trot under control as they approached the finish wire, but he suddenly went off-gait and was out of it in a twinkling. As a result, Vesta's Popular, surging along the rail, was first home for trainer-driver William Deters in 2:08, surviving a close photo finish picture over Windy Lightning and Bachelor Richie. Vesta's Popular, an 11-year-old who was winless in eight previous outings on the year, paid $11.80, $6.00 and $5.00.

Benoit Cote took Harlan Marv away from the seven post and gained the lead as they went by the first quarter pole. He held on with Vesta's Popular second most of the way. When Harlan Marv left the trot he fell back and wound up in a dead-heat for fifth place money with Lucky Play.

Sanudo Cards 65

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UPI)—Smiling Mexican Cesar Sanudo and his caddy have joined in a conspiracy of sorts against Lee Trevino.

Sanudo, a 29-year-old veteran of four years as a touring pro, borrowed a battered putter from the elder Mexican Thursday, and he doesn't want to give it back.

He used it only 25 times in the first day of the $175,000 Kemper Open and tied the Quail Hollow Country Club course record with a scorching seven-under-par 65 for the first round lead.

"I'll get it back in a day or so," said Trevino, who finished in a tie for fourth place with a 69.

Other Ideas
The shaggy-haired Sanudo has other ideas. "I told my caddy to hide my clubs," he said.

"I borrowed the putter that Lee won the U.S. Open with," Sanudo said. "It looks like it's been through a meat grinder. And every time I made a putt, he raised his hand and said, 'Don't forget, I get 30 percent.' Sanudo said.

The 65 was the best tournament round of his career and worth $1,500 in prize money for the daily low round.

Trevino used a new version of the putter he loaned Sanudo. "It (the old one) just doesn't look good. I've got it in my head I can't line up with it," Trevino said.

Casper in Second Place
Veteran Billy Casper, with a sparkling six-under 66 featuring two eagles, took sole possession of second place in the Kemper.

Three strokes back, Chris Blocker, Gibby Gilbert and Charles Sifford were tied for third with 68s.

Blocker, cousin of the late actor Can Blocker, blew a possible 66 when he bogeyed the 17th and 18th holes.

Seven golfers, including Trevino, were stacked up in fourth place with three-under 69s Thursday, and superstar Arnold Palmer led a crowded pack of 14 in fifth place with 70s.

More than 11,000 fans lined the 7,278-yard Quail Hollow course which was buffeted by an occasional gust of wind under clear skies and with temperatures in the upper 70s.

Raiders Zip Dukes For Ninth Victory

MARLBORO Randy Pfister of Red Hook High pitched a three-hit shutout to spoil Marlboro High's tuneup for Friday's UCL championship game with Liberty.

Pfister, completing a perfect 5-0 season, fanned nine and walked three in the 5-0 victory, which was considered some kind of an upset.

Red Hook completed its UCL campaign with a 9-5 record and the Dukes of Marlboro carried a 12-2 rating into the championship with Liberty. The victory was the seventh in the last eight games for Coach Al Mallanda's Raiders.

Fister and Terry Thayer each had two hits among the 11 Red Hook batters who scored four runs and three hits.

Red Hook scored two runs — all they needed, it turned out in the second inning, when first baseman Sal Magley knocked in Thayer and Gary Conner with a single. Thayer blasted a two-run single in the second inning to put Red Hook ahead 4-0.

The Raiders picked up their fifth run of the game in the fifth inning, when Dan Theberge singled and Jeff Thompson followed with a double.

Marlboro, beaten 4-0 earlier in the season, was expected to send Jones or Man-nese against Liberty Friday. The Redskins were expected to counter with Peter Mann, who blanked the Dukes on Four hits in the first meeting between the teams.

Rain date for the title game will be 2 p.m. Saturday, UCL Secretary Jim McIntyre of Pine Bush announced. "If it rains both days, we'll have to meet with the athletic directors of the schools involved before setting a date," he added.

KHS Softies Win, 17-7

POUGHKEEPSIE Kingston High School's girls' varsity softball team trounced local rival Valhalla High, 17-7, in the open game of the Section One playoffs. Valhalla had completed its regular season with a perfect 8-0 record, while Kingston won six and lost four.

Kathy Foster limited Valhalla to nine hits and held a 17-2 lead going into the bottom of the seventh.

Five of the Kingston players collected three hits. Phyllis Sabino slammed a homer and single and knocked in three runs. Kathy Slover had a triple and two singles. Shirley Knoxed drove in three runs with a single, double and triple. Mary Ann Connors hit a double and two singles. Kathy Foster rapped three singles, as did Debbie Helzer. Alana Hudson knocked in four runs on a single double combination.

The score:

Kingston ..... 106 420 4-17

Valhalla ..... 011 000 5-7

Kathy Foster and Barbara Henry; Pat Myers and Judy Stone.

If you want to overbid it behooves you to play the dummy very well and it also helps a lot if you can get your opponents to cooperate with you.
Here is a hand played by Mike Lawrence in the 1970 world championship. His two-heart overcall was nothing to sing songs about, but he still continued to game after Bob Hamman raised him to three.
West opened the queen of spades. East took his ace and led a small spade back. Mike was delighted to find his king holding but things didn't look at all good. He had lost one trick and still had two diamonds and a club to lose, not to mention the possibility of the queen of hearts scoring against him.

He needed a lot of luck plus a mistake and it all worked out. He led a trump to dummy's king and played the three of clubs. East thought and thought and thought and finally came to the conclusion that Mike was trying to sneak a trick with the singleton king. He went up with the ace of clubs and might have beaten the hand by shifting to a diamond but he chose to lead the jack of spades in hopes of developing a trump trick.

Flag Day commemorates adoption by the Continental Congress of a resolution making the Stars and Stripes the U.S. flag in 1777. The first nationally observed Flag Day was on the 100th anniversary when the government requested that the flag be flown from public buildings to commemorate its adoption. The World Almanac says.

WHY WE SAY

BACHELOR BUTTONS

UNTIIDY: A flower with jagged petals may be called a bachelor button. The name is in allusion to ancient garments which had buttons covered with cloth. Worn buttons had jagged edges and, since a man without a wife was less apt to replace his buttons, the shabby ones were called "bachelor buttons."

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

COUSIN'S CATCH: (Q.) My cousin is engaged to this guy. When I first met him I thought I liked him. I have seen him one more time and now I know I like him.
Both times he told me he liked me. I know if I keep seeing him I'll get involved. My cousin knows nothing about how I feel. What can I do?—Entangled in Florida.
(A.) Stay uninvolved, no matter how hard it is to do so. Your cousin may be engaged to a guy who likes girls in general, but that is her problem.
Your problem is to protect yourself. You can do that only by keeping your distance, mentally and physically, from her fiancé.
VISIT? (Q.) We moved up here last year from Virginia. I have this friend down there. She's real old, but nice. She's like a member of my family. I want to visit her this summer more than anything.
My sister is going to Ohio to visit my aunt, but I can't go to Virginia. How can I get my parents to let me go? I am nearly 12 and a girl.—New in New York State.
(A.) Your parents may have told you no for one of several reasons. It may be your age. (You do not say, but your sister may be older than you are.) It may be the distance. (Ohio is nearer your home town than Virginia is.) Or it may be that your friend in Virginia has not invited you.
We do not, you know, just make a visit of a day or night or of several days and nights without an invitation.
I am reasonably sure that if your friend has invited you she has also written to or talked to your parents about it. If she HAS invited you but HAN'T contacted your parents, write her and ask her to do so.

Nixon's Arrival Colorful

NEW YORK (AP) — President Nixon's arrival home from his trip to the Soviet Union and three other nations was colorful and had a beautiful stage-managed windup.

As if on cue, the President's helicopter landed gently in front of the Capitol steps on the heels of the network station breaks Monday at 9:30 p.m. EDT. Fifty minutes later, all three networks had finished televising his address to Congress and resumed their entertainment schedules.

ABC alone decided to start coverage well in advance of the President's scheduled arrival time. The decision availed little beyond some casual analysis of presidential activity during the past two weeks and some interviews with Senate Minority Leader Hugh Scott and Sens. Edmund S. Muskie and Henry M. Jackson—one approving, one reserving decision and one critical of what they knew of the trip.

At the conclusion of the President's speech, network reporters went into the ritual of telling in digest form what we had just heard in the original context. Nobody, however, explained why so many seats in the House were unoccupied.

ABC, which had been ready to launch Roy Scheider on a television career as a James Bond type hero in "Assignment: Vienna," has chosen Robert Conrad to star as the show's intrepid agent. Scheider was the lead in the pilot program, but meanwhile became a hit in his role in the "The French Connection." He decided to stick to movies.

Conrad is an old hand at playing picaresque heroes: "Wild, Wild West" had a run of several seasons on CBS and before that he was one of the improbable sleuths of "Hawaiian Eye." The foreign intrigue series will be part of the network's forthcoming trilogy under the title "The Men."

Mary Tyler Moore's situation comedy will have another semiregular in the cast, the talented Nanette Fabray. She probably will be a new tenant in Mary's apartment house. Cloris Leachman, an Oscar winner this season, will continue to appear in about half of the shows.

Hugh O'Brian, star of the pilot program of NBC's "Probe," will share the series limelight with Doug McClure and Tony Franciosa, veterans of bygone action series. This interesting casting gets away from the usual demographic split of three costars: the older man to appeal to mature viewers and provide a father image, a handsome young fellow to identify

McGovern Tops California Poll

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Sen. George McGovern is rated the runaway leader in a poll of California Democrats ready to vote in the state's pivotal presidential primary Tuesday. Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey called the survey baloney.

The California poll by opinion analyst Mervin D. Field gave McGovern a 20 per cent lead in advance of the primary, an election which the South Da-published today, the McGovern organization had made an effort to play down his reading to avoid the risk involved in casting him as a landslide favorite.

The poll rated McGovern at 46 per cent of the vote, Humphrey at 26 and Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, who is not on the ballot, third with 8 per cent. A write-in campaign is under way for Wallace, 44 wounded and partially paral-ized in an assassination attempt May 15.

Thirteen per cent of the vote was listed as undecided with the balanced scattered among six other entries. The 271-vote California nominating delegation will go to the statewide primary leader on a winner-take-all basis.

A new poll conducted by McGovern's own organization also rated him far ahead, 44 per cent to Humphrey's 28.

VANDAL'S ATTACK — The figure of Justice in the 1883 painting of the Great Seal and Coat of Arms of New York State has been badly disfigured by vandals. The painting is on display in the outer lobby of the Secretary of State's office in Albany. The vandals punched out the eyes of the blindfolded figure, and tore a hole in the neck. Another hole was punched in the canvas near the figure. (UPI)

Wallace Has 'Popular' Lead

WASHINGTON (AP) — If Miami Beach July 10, Wallace has 323 delegates—about the number he is expected to take to the convention.

McGovern, more than one million votes behind Wallace, isn't even in second place in popular votes. He trails Hubert H. Humphrey's 2,654,906, although Humphrey is in third place with 295½ delegates.

Wallace has entered 13 primaries and won five of them, finishing second in another five. Humphrey has won four of 13, coming in second four times.

McGovern has won five of 12 and finished second three times.

Wallace's campaign has been aimed at the popular turnout without any thought to the attendant delegate selection. Where primary success translated automatically into delegates, he won them.

For example, Wallace finished a strong second in Wisconsin but didn't get a single delegate. In Pennsylvania he was second in the popular vote but elected only two delegates.

In West Virginia Wallace lost a two-man race to Humphrey but got 33 per cent of the vote. Still he didn't get one delegate.

McGovern, meanwhile, was taking delegates in states he lost.

McGovern got seven and Edmund Muskie three delegates in West Virginia although they weren't on the preferential ballot. They worked in the separate delegate election while Wallace ignored it.

U.S. Fighter Pilots Top Air Combat Score

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. fighter pilots have scored better than 8 to 1 over North Vietnamese fliers in air combat this year.

Pentagon charts list 34 North Vietnamese MIG jet fighters downed in air duels since Jan. 1. Four U.S. planes have been shot down by MIGs.

Most of these kills have come since the United States resumed heavy bombing of North Vietnam in April.

This record is a turnaround from the late stages of the 1965-68 air war against the North when the fighter score was nearly even and, for a time, North Vietnamese MIGs out-killed American jets.

Many of the U.S. planes that attacked North Vietnam in the late 1960s were Air Force F105 Thunderchiefs, so awkward to maneuver when bomb-loaded that they were derided with the nickname "Thud."

Veterans of the air war said the F105s often flew northward without escort in those days, and MIGs caught some of them in a virtually helpless position before the F105s could pull out of their bomb runs.

Now, however, the F105 is out of the air war except for a small number of Thunderchiefs specially equipped with electronic-warfare gear for use against North Vietnamese surface-to-air missile sites and radar.

In the current air campaign against the North, much of the work is being done by agile F4 Phantom jets, U.S. Air Force and Navy planes on bombing missions over North Vietnam are escorted by fighters virtually all the time, officials said.

Commission's Rollback ....Only $1.85 Million

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Price Commission's rollback orders so far have billed American businesses for only $1.85 million in refunds, many of which aren't paid yet.

Officials say more and bigger rollbacks are coming. And, they say, consumers will benefit not only from refunds but also from lower prices.

Still, the refunds ordered so far are a long way from the "hundreds of millions of dollars in price cuts" that Commission Chairman C. Jackson Grayson Jr. said were in the works more than a month ago.

Edward T. York, the commission's deputy director of program operations, said in an interview Thursday that 42 firms have been ordered to cut prices, for an estimated total of $1.85 million in direct and indirect refunds. He said he didn't know how much as been paid so far. Half the rollback orders are less than a month old.

"You're going to see some more voluntary reductions in fairly good amounts of money," York said, declining to name any firms.

Davis Trial Slated for Jury

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI)—The trial of Angela Davis was scheduled to go to the jury today.

Defense attorney Leo Branton made an impassioned final plea for the Miss Davis, 28, declaring she was the victim of a "gigantic hoax" and that no black in the world would wonder she went into hiding after a judge was slain Aug. 7, 1970.

Branton reviewed the 300-year-old record of oppression and killings of Negroes from the days of the slave ships to Dr. Martin Luther King, and said her flight came out of sheer fear, not a consciousness of guilt.

Branton charged that prosecution witnesses had either been "programmed" or were lying when they placed her at San Rafael the day before the shooting and at San Quentin Prison where George Jackson was held.

"This is a gigantic hoax not only against the defendant but against the whole system of take hostages to free 'Soledad Brother' George Jackson for try," he said.

Miss Davis sat, chin cupped in hand without a change of expression, as Branton read in poem form lines from a love letter Angela wrote to George Jackson.

Branton put a chart of chains of circumstantial evidence on a stand and then ripped down the paper to show a drawing of Angela in chains. Then he ripped down another sheet showing her standing free and unshackled.

"Whether you want to or not you are going to be a part of history," Branton said. "I am convinced you will bring in the only verdict possible—not guilty."
